

Entomology for Anglers (Virtual) - January 4th, 2022

Start Date: 6/26/2024 6:30 PM

End Date: 6/26/2024 8:30 PM

There are a lot of flies out there. How do you pick the right one for the fish you're targeting? We'll tell you in this virtual program!

It's all about 'matching the hatch' - AKA picking the fly that most accurately resembles the available food sources in the water. Join us as we break it all down in our entomology course, which covers insect morphology, aquatic adaptations, collection techniques, specimen ID, the life history of aquatic insects and the fly patterns that imitate them.

If you are interested in the class, we also encourage registering for our next 'Fly Fishing Basic: How to Read a Trout Stream'. This virtual course will help you find those hungry trout once you've identified what they're feeding on.
